HUGE TNT PLANT
NEAR SYRACUSE
IS WRECKED

This city. Three glass windows in the building were broken and some debris scattered perceptibly, causing these occupants to rush into the streets.

All telephone wires were down and the exact situation in the big munition plant was unknown at 10:30 o'clock tonight, about one hour after the disaster occurred.

Every ambulance in the city was rushed to the scene and squads of police were hurried to the plant to preserve order.

The plant of the Smet-Solway Company is largely TNT, a powerful explosive used in the manufacture of munitions.

More than three thousand men are employed at the plant, and it is at whom credit in this city.

Police headquarters reported at 11:30 o'clock that an enormous quantity of TNT, valued at $100,000, had been blown up and a thick smoke cloud continued to billow from the fire and smoke.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 2.—The police believe the list of dead and injured will amount to 100 when final details are available. Unidentified with the available, scattered bodies were in view to the bodies of the victims.

Columns of flames shot 200 feet in height. The fire was so intense that it was not possible to get within 100 feet of the burning structure.

Two women caught between two burning buildings were forced through a wall by the explosion. The explosion, 800 feet, they were pulled up with a sliver of shrapnel on their bodies. Both probably will die.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Charles M. Schwab, director of the Emergency Fleet corporation and Charles F. Rice, vice president and superintendent of steel ship construction, who will witness the greatest ship launching event in the history of the world here July 4, arrived in San Francisco today.

"I am here to speed up construction in the ship yards along the Pacific coast and if any particular yard does not seem to be doing its full share it must 'go up in the collar,' but I do not expect to find any slacker shipyard," Mr. Schwab told city and army and navy officials at a "formal" reception in the hotel.

MEAT PROBLEM GROWS
MORE ACUTE EACH DAY

WASHINGTON, July 2.—With the population of the world increasing faster than the growth in the meat supply, government experts estimate a serious problem is being solved in the meat industry to its present high development have declined 30 per cent. In Europe the condition is even more serious because of depletion due to the war. Argentina and New Zealand continue to produce great quantities of meat, but the distance to the congested centers of population adds much to the expense of marketing. South America's vast fields and splendid herbage, therefore, are being looked to as the source of supply, now as well as after the war.

Argentina is today the most important meat producing country in the world, according to a review of meat packing in South America by the Latin American Division of the Bureau of Economic and Consular Affairs. Uruguay also is becoming a center of the industry and Brazil, Paraguay, Colombia and Venezuela to a less extent. Out of a total of $15,417 tons of beef, mutton and lamb produced in 1915, Argentina produced 136,405 tons, New Zealand and Australia 282,174 tons, the United States 89,523 tons, Uruguay 12,291 tons, Brazil 23,573 tons, Canada 21,724 tons and other countries the remainder.

Development of cattle breeding in South America has been a direct result of the discovery of refrigeration. Until the practice of freezing meat was introduced, South American commerce in meat was negligible, being confined to the shipment of low grade smoked or salted beef, for which there was little sale. When American and British capital established plants in Argentina and Uruguay, and later in other countries, the practice of freezing meat so that it could be shipped fresh across the ocean, commanding high prices and being in great demand, native ranchmen began to improve their stock by the introduction of thoroughbreds.

As a result, millionaire ranchmen in Argentina and Uruguay are almost as powerful as millionaires of men in Oklahoma. Frozen meat is being used extensively by the Allied armies and the flow of gold in the world's commerce has been streaming on increasing flood toward South America.

Meat packing in Argentina has been so successful because it was spared the hardships which a new industry usually encounters. Profiting by American experience, the plants were established along modern lines without costly experiment. A market already had been created in Europe by the shipment of frozen meat from the United States. Argentina is now working to increase her herds to keep pace with the exportation of the packing houses, while Brazil is endeavoring to augment the number of packing houses to handle the plentiful supply of stock. The Brazilian government is giving every encouragement to breeders by liberating their stock of cattle.

Columbia has offered a subsidy of 10,000 pounds to the first packing house established in that country. Columbia has approximately 1,000,000 head of cattle, which can be expected now only on the horn. American, British and Swedish firms are reported to be investigating the subsidy offer.

KAISER INDIRECTLY
DISTRIBUTES IRON
CROSSES TO SAMMIES

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN PHILIPPINES July 2.—The German emperor has distributed iron crosses to among the American forces holding new lines westward of Hill 204.
The distribution of course was not direct.
It was via the chests of supplies which Germany considers among her best. Having an iron cross in one's possession seemed to be a bad thing among the American forces for nearly every prisoner taken has one and extremely few retain them. These probably are overlooked during the excitement of battle and the subsequent hurry to get the prisoners to the rear out of the zone of fire.

Praise For Milk Girls

PARIS, July 2.—The little milk girls of Rheims are given high rank by Paul Drouot, of that martyred city.
In an article he has written praising the heroism displayed by the women of Rheims. M. Drouot was editor of the Belgium, at 17, which newspaper he published in Rheims until there were no longer any subscribers to buy it.

"The little milk girls" in Rheims will never be forgotten at Rheims. This was a necessity for the children, the aged and the sick. Thanks to the little milk girls they never went without.

The killing of these little girls announced their arrival and for forty-four months they remained in the streets of the city. Many a time they were taken by surprise in a storm of shells. Three of them had to be carried away on stretchers, but the others continued on their route so that the children and sick would have their milk at the same. On February 25th we heard the (whistling of shells) for the last time. The little milk girls were sent out of the city. They had risked their mission to the very end, for after that there were no longer in Rheims other children, aged or sick.

Red Cross Aids Chinese

Peking, July 2.—The American Red Cross Flood Relief Corps at Tientsin with the 1,100 families aggregating 4,500 persons, feared that when river floods drove them from their homes, in new only a memory, every family having been located in the Red Cross camps. The Red Cross members 1,300 people were placed in a village built by them by generous Chinese property owners outside of the town of Tientsin where the camp was established. Every sign of the camp had been wiped out and the grounds restored to their original state.

but the big fellows up to the huge 24-inch Stokes 15-inch monster developed in a British ordnance office in this country, stood in stockade emplacements. A row of demolished guns, which burst in teeth, constituting the great "battery," and the battered sides of some of the long waited emplacements, showed the necessity of the storeroom.

West in (17) was the mobile artillery testing range. On the firing line stood guns of all kinds, French 75's, British 18 pounders, 4.7 howitzers and rifles, small vicious looking 8 inch and 9.2 howitzers and long range rifles.
